DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group I in Paper No. 4 is acknowledged.

Claims 11-22 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Polyurethane is not known to be bioabsorbable.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 9 recites the limitation "bioabsorbable material" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

Claims 1, 2, 4-8, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gellman et al. (US 6,264,676). Gellman discloses in columns 19-21, a bone anchor (Fig. 26a & 26b) having a protective cover 279 or 290. The protective cover may be made of any myriad of deformable materials (Col. 19, lines 62-67). Also, the protective cover is bioabsorbable (Col. 20, lines 1-6), and may be made of many of the claimed materials, such as polylactic acid (Col. 20, lines 15-28). The protective cover may be filled on its surfaces with an antibiotic (Col. 20, lines 29-32). The antibiotic may be made of many of the claimed materials, such as nafcillin (Col. 20, lines 42-47).

Claims 1, 2, 4-7 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Draenert (US 5,048,050). Draenert discloses in Figure 1 a protective cover 10 for a bone anchor (Col. 3, lines 11-16). Since the protective cover may be made of a bioabsorbable collagen (Col. 4, lines 55-59), it is inherently deformable. An antibiotic may be added to the material of the protective cover 10 (Col. 5, lines 36-41).

Claims 1 and 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Schenk (US 5,997,541). Schenk discloses a protective cover 1 that is bioabsorbable and may be made of many of the same claimed materials, such as polyglycolide (Col. 4, lines 37-59). Other possible materials include glasses and ceramics (Col. 4, lines 60-64), which inherently are brittle.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure: Justin et al. (US 5,980,524) and Cachia et al. (US 2001/0049529 A1).
